Billy Williams

You've always been our favorite! Don't tell the other kids, though! We loved watching you crash and burn when you were learning to walk - and now look at you, all walking at Graduation! Cherish the Past, Soar into the future - Wings of Eagles, baby! We Love You - Mom, Dad, Jinny, Scooter, and Petey

Can I order more than one? YES!

Can Grandma order one, too? YES!

Do I get my pictures back? YES! We scan them, then mail them home!

I missed the deadline - now what?
Send it in - If I can get it published, I will! If not I'll call you with my sad voice and return your stuff.

I know, I know – Do I really have to begin thinking about my kid graduating? Right Now? Can't I put it off another year so she doesn't really grow up?

My oldest is a senior this year and those thoughts pierce me every day. Moments of "lasts" seem to creep into every conversation as time begins to speed by.

This is his last Homecoming corsage to forget to order at the last minute...

This is his last time to complain about a 1st quarter grade until the teacher gives in and offers him extra credit...

And in a few short months, this will be his last yearbook to search through and find a thoughtful message from Mom & Dad, the little bros and the dog.

Please take the opportunity this year to make a memory and to make your senior smile –
